

Silver State Legacy Park Award

Description:

A Silver State Legacy Park is a park that holds special prominence in the local community and the state of Nevada. These parks have endured the test of time and have become iconic to those who have visited, played and rested on their grounds. Designation as a Silver State Legacy Park is the highest accolade the Nevada Recreation and Park Society can bestow upon a park.

Idlewild Park, Reno, Nevada circa 1930

Parks have played an important role in the development of our communities throughout history. Much like Main Streets helped to provide commerce and identity, local parks helped to promote community, natural respite, and social interaction as communities were founded, developed, and prospered.

Silver State Legacy Parks are not meant to be of a specific size, make up, or location. The designation is to recognize what a park means to a particular community. While New York City is home to Central Park, and Los Angeles has Griffith Park, communities all over our state have parks that have been a source of great pride and history. Some parks are significant for their natural resources, including their deserts, springs and wetlands. Other parks are noteworthy for annual traditions such as parades, pageants, and festivals. Silver State Legacy Park recognition will honor the significant impact these sites have made on their communities and citizens.

Submitting Applications:

Applications are due by February 29, 2020. Successful applicants will be announced at the Nevada Recreation and Park Society Annual Conference on April 9, 2019. Agencies may submit one park each year for consideration.

Criteria:

Legacy Parks must be at least 20 years old, designated as a public park and meet at least one of the following:

- The park is recognized as a regional, community or neighborhood park.
- The property represents distinctive design and/or construction.
- The park is associated with historic events or sites.
- The park is associated with events specific to the local community/state.
- The park is home to unique natural features.

Judging:

Judging will be done by a panel consisting of:

- One (1) ASLA Representative
- Two (2) NRPS Professional Members
- One (1) NRPS Academic Representative
- One (1) Planning/Landscape Architect Representative

Panel members will review applications and apply points to each criterion. Points will be tallied and applications with the highest scores will be awarded the designation. The review committee will make final decisions on the number of eligible awards to make in a year.

Marketing of Silver State Legacy Parks:

All parks designated as Legacy Parks will be included in marketing materials including rack cards, website, PSA's and other collateral materials as appropriate. These materials will be used to promote the parks and their communities as a part of Heritage Tourism. Materials will be updated annually to include newly awarded sites.
