

James DiNicola, Recreation Supervisor – City of Henderson

James DiNicola is the Recreation Supervisor for the City of Henderson's Sports division. He grew up playing sports in the recreation centers and when James was 17, he applied for a Recreation Assistant position with the City's Cultural Arts section. During his career with the City of Henderson, since 2001, James has been lucky enough to supervise several sections including Tech Services, Downtown Recreation Center, Bird Viewing Preserve, Transportation and now Sports.

James received an Associates degree from Western Wyoming, he is a NAYS Certified Youth Sports Administrator, has been a recipient of the department's Spirit Award, received the NRPS Program Excellence Award, helped the Sports section to receive the Youth Sports Excellence Award and National Softball Hall of Fame Induction, and even though he has never worked in Aquatics he has a Certified Pool Operator certification.

Outside of work he enjoys coaching, currently coaching his 13th season of high school boys' basketball. He also loves playing games with family and karaoke nights with friends. James always enjoyed riding his bike to the local park as a kid and now as a parent he loves taking the kids to the recreation facilities and seeing them have similar great experiences as he had. Also, thanks to the house seats app, James has been to over 100 shows, concerts and sporting events in Las Vegas within the past 3 years.
