

Eric Roberts, President and CEO – Knit Communities

Eric is the President and CEO of Knit Communities (formerly SH Architecture) and a loyal member of Nevada Recreation and Parks Society!

In school, while he was working towards his Master of Architecture at the University of Idaho, Eric would work the summers running the baseball, softball, and soccer programs for the City of Moscow, Idaho. He loved working with so many great people in the Parks and Recreation world and the impact that they were able to have in strengthening communities. When Eric became an architect, he didn't forget the impact of those programs and services and the great people. He has always focused on projects that centered in Parks and Recreation because of those early days working as a program coordinator.

Eric likes to paint and sketch outside of work. He runs a local group called "Urban Sketchers Las Vegas" that gathers every month to sketch and watercolor at various locations around the valley. This is a free group that allows him to get out in the community and meet great people while doing something he loves.

He has had the opportunity to work with some great professionals in Nevada to do some great projects! Some of his favorites are: Craig Ranch Regional Park, Heritage Aquatic Center, White Pine Aquatic Center, Pavilion Pool, Winnemucca Boys & Girls club and Charleston Heights Park.

Eric and his company Knit Communities are the current sponsor of the LEAD Institute at Conference 2020 and many other LEAD events.

NRPS is extremely grateful of his support to develop our community leaders!
